KNOXVILLE, TN – BeGreat. is continuing its growth journey with the release of new clothing options, more colors and even more podcast episodes.

Growth has not been a problem to Chris Cook and BeGreat. Inspiration as Cook continues to curate more content and release new merchandise. Cook remains optimistic about his spring merchandise drop that offers more color options to existing shirts as well as tank tops for women.

The first two pictures above are the coveted items being released on Friday's drop along with the all-new BeGreat. gift cards. The children's merchandise and sweatpants are still relatively new products that most new businesses don't offer.

In addition to new merchandise, Cook is offering discount greeting cards with his products that give his customers a closer look into the efforts of the company through social media. The cards also offer parents as well as other consumers discounts on BeGreat. merchandise.

The company's expansion has allowed for Cook to begin motivational speaking, a main goal of the business he runs. The company maintains social networking pages with motivational quotes and features user-generated content from all customers.

The BeGreat. podcast is also being revamped with new subject matter and deeper conversations to come.

The social networking channels and podcasts associated with BeGreat. are dedicated to motivating audiences with inspirational podcast material and top-notch merchandise.

Founder and CEO of BeGreat. Chris Cook sports a purple BeGreat hoodie.

“Chris is one of the nicest human beings I’ve ever met. The work he does goes far beyond sales and numbers, it’s about changing the lives of others in an immensely positive way. “
